© Zoological Institute, St.Petersburg, 2004

Aleyrodes borchsenii Danzig, 1966 is a junior synonym of A. lonicerae Walker, 1852 (Homoptera: Aleyrodidae)

E.M. Danzig

Danzig, E.M. 2004. Aleyrodes borchsenii Danzig, 1966 is a junior synonym of A. lonicerae Walker, 1852 (Homoptera: Aleyrodidae). Zoosystematica Rossica, 13(1): 114.

Aleyrodes borchsenii Danzig, 1966 is placed in synonymy with A. lonicerae Walker, 1852.

E.M. Danzig, Zoological Institute, Russian Academy of Sciences, Universitetskaya nab. 1, St.Petersburg 199034, Russia.

Aleyrodes borchsenii was described from the Russian Far East (Danzig, 1966). The synonymy of this name with A. lonicerae Walker, 1852 (new synonymy) is established by comparison of type specimens of A. borchsenii with extensive material of A. lonicerae. Distinctions mentioned by Danzig (1966), an elongate puparium and deeply toothed margin, are within the range of intraspecific variability of A. lonicerae.

References

Danzig, E.M. 1966. The whiteflies (Homoptera, Aleyrodoidea) of the Southern Primor'ye (Soviet Far East). Entomol. Obozr., 45(2): 364-386. (In Russian). [English translation in Entomol. Rev., Wash., 45(2): 197-209].

Received 29 October 2004